FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: June 27, 2007

BCI Technologies takes over PowerRICHSystem Marketing

(Kissimmee, FL.) BCI Technologies (formally Blackburn Controls, Inc.)

BCI Technologies is assuming full development, sales, and marketing responsibilities for the PowerRichSystem. Dr. Jay Park, formerly of ABB, Inc., has been named Product Manager for BCI Technologies, PowerRichSystem Division. Dr. Park brings with him 10 years of experience managing the PowerRichSystem and a total of 45 years in computer systems..

The PowerRichSystem has a large installed base of international customers within the Utility and Industrial markets. The system is designed to monitor, meter, acquire data, and control multiple devices from a remote location. The PowerRichSystem uses open protocol standards which accomplishes interoperability with multiple manufacturers equipment. Communications are accomplished through industry standard protocols such as Modbus, DNP, OPC, IEC61870, and IEC61850. In addition, PowerRichSystems is scalable, with the ability to add capabilities and functionality as future needs require. Visit our web site for more detailed information, www.PowerRICHsystem.com .
